Dr. Michelle Maloney is a lawyer and advocate for Earth-centred law and governance.

She holds a Bachelor of Arts (Political Science and History) and Laws (Honours) from the Australian National University and a Ph.D. in Law from Griffith University.

She is co-founder and National Convenor of the Australian Earth Laws Alliance (AELA), and in this role she works to promote the understanding and practical implementation of Earth-centred governance in Australia – with a focus on law, economics, ethics, education, Indigenous partnerships and the arts.

She is an engaging and passionate speaker.

*“There are two relationships,
one between land and
one between people.*

The question is one of a custodial ethic, of looking after land that becomes the core of what kind of society you have...the big one is the law of obligation, we are obliged to look after the land and each other.”

Adjunct Associate Professor Mary Graham
